

Calendar for Presentations

We will follow the calendar below for in-class presentations of your written assignment. Please, prepare max 5 slides (including title) and plan to talk 5-10 minutes. You should be clear about the motivation of your paper, the analysis you performed and the conclusions you drawn.

All presentations should be emailed to me ahead of time (at least 2 hours before class starts) and put on a memory stick for easy transfer on the class computer.

This is the calendar I have so far. If you have not emailed me your area of interest yet, please do so by Sunday evening. On Monday morning I will complete the calendar and assign to each of you an area and a date for the presentation.

1. Trade and Growth (November 5)
Brian Bruggeman, Naeun Kim,
2. Inequality and Growth (November 12)
Erik Gorsuch, Gautam Kanlikar, Aria Sameni,
3. Government and Growth (November 19)
Meghan Anderson, Melissa Granlund
4. Culture and Growth (December 3)
Christopher Abacon, Ashley Gerner, Ross Hewitt, Alyssa Pazandak, Melanie Sarkissian, Brandon Whited
5. Geography and Growth (December 10)
Jessica Chen, Jiao Wang,

On Thursday Oct. 24 the half page describing the topic of interest is due. You are encouraged to get in touch with the other students in your area to possibly confront ideas and coordinate with them. It would be nice to have presentations that sort of “fit” together around a common theme. However, it is not required. So, you feel strongly about a particular topic/idea you should go for it. On the other hand, for those of you that do not have strong feelings yet, it may be useful to exchange ideas with others.

Have fun with your project, I am looking forward to it!
